

A caring doctor

Astonishing at naets

I've been under Dr. Johnson's care for about three years now. Naets; nutritional; chiropractic; pain elimination. In my life experiences, I've been allergic to almost everything.

Recently, I had cataract eye surgery. Knowing my history, I asked for all of the meds that their facility would use so I could have Dr. Johnson muscle test me for possible allergies. I was given a list of meds to be used. Dr. Johnson found one allergen that I needed a naet treatment on.

Of course, eye surgery and I had an allergic reaction to something. Dr. Johnson, caring doctor that he is, called twice and worked with the office manager at attempting to discover this unknown allergen or allergens. It turns out that they didn't mention using Bedadine. Dr. Johnson figured that out himself. I muscle tested and was allergic to it and he did a naet on same. He also figured out that I was experiencing a yeast problem after the surgery. Again, muscle testing, and I needed a naet on yeast, then a yeast plus sugar combination.

When I returned for my final eye visit, Karen, the office manager at the facility, had said that Dr. Johnson really cared about his patients. And that he asked if they used Bedadine and they did. And my doctor at the clinic, twice, had nothing but praise for Dr. Johnson. I already knew that Dr. Johnson was a caring doctor but it was nice to hear it from other professionals.

My experience with Dr. Johnson is that he will do whatever he can for his patients. When doing naets, he comes up with some of the most astonishing suggestions. Far beyond allergies to dust or fish or metals or chemicals, Dr. Johnson excels in the naet field. Give him a situation; he'll resolve it for you.

This journey, nearing an end, I am a completely different person than I was when I first walked through his doors. With all of the healing I've received through Dr. Johnson, I will walk out happy and confident that I will experience my best years yet because of his caring and his healing. He is, by far, the best around.

Sincerely,
